

Visiting a Halen House and Halen estate with a personal guide / inhabitant

Dear Guest of Halen,

You may visit Halen freely during daytime. You will find further information and plans on www.halen.ch (subpage „visit & understand“). Don't hesitate to ask people you encounter in Halen, if you may see the inside of their house. Most of the people living there will make it possible.

A preorganized visit requires preparations and quite some time to show the group through Halen and a house. This is why the following aspects are important:

	Please book your Halen visit at least 6 weeks in advance. The people that show you their house and show you around can only do this in their spare time. It needs to be planned.
	Our visitor „guides“ are private people living in Halen. They are neither architects nor professional guides. They will be able to show and tell you a lot about day-to-day Halen life and how the community works. But we cannot deliver you professional information such as detailed plans or scientifically or historically checked data.
	We charge the following fees for showing you a Halen house and walking you around Halen (touring without guide is free!): 1-2 persons: 25 Euros. 3-6 persons: 30 Euros. For groups larger than 6 people it is 5 Euros per person. The money is only used for cultural purposes of the Halen community.
	We cannot guarantee a replacement, if our guide gets sick, although, of course, we try to.
	We usually cannot provide food & drinks nor private accomodation. We need to charge for it, if you wish for it. Of course you may use our lavatories. There is a wonderful bed & breakfast in Halen (just one dooble room for 1-3 people in a group): you will find the website on the homepage of www.halen.ch
